

AFRICAN VOICES

"How can we tell our children of the lives our parents led / When we do not know the language that they heard when to / Be fed" (From Africa to Come: The view of the younger generation: a Perpetual Diary, published in 1996).

Although many consider Africa the birthplace of the world, her voice is hardly heard, and as emphasized by one of our young people quoted above, we cannot lead the future without knowing the past.

AFRICAN VOICES challenge is to help the world, read, speak and experience the wisdom of African languages.

A percentage of all proceeds of these products will be donated to African Action on AIDS to help send orphans to school and fund the learning of African languages.
